

SPECIAL VENIRE TO TRY DR. WINNES

Sheriff Berry Howard Ordered to Bring in 100 Men From Whom To Pick a Jury

(By Associated Press)
Harlan, Ky., Jan. 21.—A special venire of 100 talesmen from which to choose a jury to try Dr. H. C. Winnes on a charge of murder in connection with the killing of Miss Laura Parsons, Pine Mountain Settlement school teacher, is being summoned today by Sheriff Berry Howard.

Judge Davis instructed the sheriff to go out of the county to get enough men if necessary. It is expected the selection of a jury will require two days.

Harlan, Ky., Jan. 21.—The selection of a jury for the trial of Dr. H. C. Winnes, who recently resigned as state veterinarian, charged with having murdered Miss Laura Parsons, Pine Mountain Settlement school teacher, on a trail through the hills near Dillon September 7, will be begun Friday morning immediately after the completion of a minor case in the Harlan circuit court.

When the case was called for trial Thursday the defense, thru its attorneys asked for a continuance, declaring that a material witness was absent.

Judge W. T. Davis heard the request and refused to postpone the trial, declaring that the court was determined to proceed with the case.

Following Judge Davis' action in overruling the motion for a continuance, the defense filed an affidavit in which it was declared that A. B. Broughton, a former guard at the prison camp at Dillon, was a material witness, and that he was ill at his home in Knox county. The affidavit said that the defense considered that Broughton's testimony was essential.

The affidavit asserted that Mr. Broughton would testify that "two convicts left the prison camp five minutes after Miss Parsons passed on her way from the railroad station toward the settlement school and that they were gone about one hour. There were no guards around at this time and these prisoners were out unattended, Broughton would testify, the affidavit said.

It is also stated that Broughton would say that Dr. Winnes had not reached the prison camp for an hour or an hour and a half after Miss Parsons passed.

The statements of the defense also asserted that Broughton, if he could appear, would testify that he had been making a quiet investigation within the prison camp when C. M. Green, state superintendent of prison camps, discharged him, alleging that he was intimidating convicts and that Broughton would allege further that officials took the position that the prison camp was the "state's business" and that persons who were investigating the murder had no right to inspect the camp or extend their investigation to it.

Broughton would also testify, the affidavit asserts, that virtually no effort was made on the part of the officials in charge of the prison camp to investigate within the camp following the discovery of Miss Parsons' body after the attack and murder. Judge Davis after hearing the affidavit, ruled that it could be introduced as evidence.

The judge also announced that he would give the right to both the defense and to the community to name a bailiff to represent each to produce Broughton in the court if his presence continued to be considered necessary.

State Senator Hiram Brock, of Harlan county, teachers of the Pine Mountain school and club women from other parts of the state, who aided in raising money to be used in the prosecution, were in the mountain court room.

Jerry Reed, negro convict, who was held to the grand jury along with Dr. Winnes at their joint examining trial, is still in jail here. He is one of the negroes at a convict road camp, near the scene of the murder.

MANUFACTURERS CAN PAY HIGH PRICES

For Tobacco Is Developed at Conference Called by Bingham With Financiers

(By Associated Press)
Louisville, Ky., Jan. 21.—Preliminary steps intended to dissolve the dilemma for Kentucky tobacco farmers who say they face ruin because of low prices to have their product taken to New York are expected to reach fruition in a marketing organization, according to an announcement by Arthur Krock, editor of the Times.

Krock returned today from New York, where he attended a conference of growers, warehousemen and redriers, with Bernard Baruch, former chairman of the war industries board, and other New York financiers. Baruch was asked to form a marketing organization. Preliminary plans are for the growers to be shareholders, and members.

Initial steps were also taken to discover how much low grade tobacco can be sold abroad and what assistance can be expected from banks in discounting notes of foreign governments who may buy them.

"It was the unanimous opinion among disinterested financiers," said Krock in a statement today, "that the manufacturers are making a mistake in paying such low prices for the crop. It is generally understood that they could have paid several more cents a pound."

"Another financier said the manufacturers could not expect to continue to charge double price for their goods and pay half price for the raw material."

The conference was called by Robert W. Bingham, publisher of the Times and Courier-Journal.

He opposed the Calder bill regulating the coal industry. He said undoubtedly there are some abuses in the coal business which he could not defend.

Washington, Jan. 21.—Whether a temporary hole should be bored in the wall of republican opposition holding up the confirmation of about 20,000 nominations by President Wilson so that action could be taken in some emergency cases was discussed today at a secret conference of Republican Senators. Many Senators predicted the general policy of refusing to confirm postmasters, members of the shipping board, and general army officers will be adhered to.

WILL NIGHT RIDE IF THEY CAN'T JOY RIDE

Irvin Cobb Says of Kentuckians in Address to Kentucky Society at New York

New York, Jan. 21.—Irvin S. Cobb told 600 Kentuckian last night of his pride in hailing from that state, which, he said, "may be deprived of its joyriding with the advent of the blue laws, but will never do away with its night riding." He was the guest of honor at a dinner of the Kentuckians in the Hotel Plaza.

Mr. Cobb told a story of a man who boasted to his friends that he had been "all over and had seen everything." A stranger, overhearing his boast, asked him whether he ever had delirium tremens. The man said he had not. "Well, then, stranger," was the reply, "you ain't been nowhere and you ain't never seen nothing." A person who has never been to Kentucky "ain't never seen nothing, and ain't never seen nothing," said Mr. Cobb.

Evan Shelby, president of the Kentucky Society, was the chairman. In introducing Mr. Cobb, he said that the author was another product of the state of which the natives could boast the others being tobacco, horses and stilleries.

"I might spend a congenial half hour telling the members of the Kentucky Society what they mean in the civic, social and economic life of this great city to which they have been transplanted—of what a gap would be left in New York, big as she is, were those who sit here tonight suddenly removed from their midst," said the author.

"But all this you know without my recalling it to you. Lack of self-appreciation was never a fault of a true Kentuckian. Some are, I may say, almost passionately addicted to themselves."

"There is a legend that Kentuckians are greater of stature than the citizens of any other state, with the exception of Tennessee. I think this impression is due to the fact that every time a Kentuckian remembers where he came from he rears back so far he seems at least eighteen inches taller than he really is. We are a breed that can strut sitting down."

"Unaccustomed as I now am to public drinking, I find that guests at a public dinner do not bear with a speaker so kindly as they did in the days before wine, women and song were succeeded by Bevo, your own wife and congregational singing."

"But there is one subject touching which I feel that I am on safe ground and that is the subject of Kentucky. Boneheads may make her bone dry. Her mint patches may languish vainly for the Kentucky julep, which originated before the revolution and which some people think had a good deal to do with bringing it on."

"Her distilleries may be converted into fertilizer works, her corner taverns may turn into delicatessen shops, her Colonels no longer be full of corn and her corn destined never again to bring cheer to her Colonels."

"Tobacco trust, following the example of its prototype of the insect world, the tobacco worm, may cut down the second of her great crops to the vanishing point, where no longer the head of Columbia will be wreathed about the fragrant incense of burley leaf, but all the same to us, she'll forever be the state where the sun shines the brightest—the state which we love and which tonight we toast in sparkling vichy."

"Why shouldn't the Kentuckians be proud. Kentucky in the sisterhood of states enjoys a peculiar and an unapproachable place. If she is deplorable in the great world war she was one of the foremost among those states which led all the rest in the physical fitness and the willingness to serve of her manhood; thereby duplicating her unparalleled record in the 60's, when Kentucky gauged on percentage of the division of sentiment among her own people gave, in proportion to her Union population more volunteers to the North than Ohio did and in proportion to her Confederate population, more volunteers to the South than did Florida; sending to both armies more recruited troops than she had enrolled voters."

We may not lead the nation in finance, although occasionally we do breed a Coleman du Pont, but we produce more poets to the acre than any like area of the world's habitable surface. Not all Kentuckians write poetry, but all Kentuckians think poetry.

"Her population may not have grown so fast in the last decade as has that of some of her sister states, West and North, but for that we are consoled by the reflection that it is better for a man to be born a lone orphan in Kentucky than for him to be born as duly authenticated twins in Kansas."

"Once she was the banner democratic state of the Solid South. Lately she has shown a startling increase in the number of young republicans, which is only to be accounted for on the ground that up in Governor Morrow's end of the state there must be a strong admixture of Belgian hare in the population."

"Her glories can never be dimmed. Blue laws may cut down our joy riders, but we'll have our night riders left. Prohibition has destroyed one of the chiefest of our taxable products, but yet may the thirsty seek the recesses of the mountains, where the moonshine is still."

"Reformers may work their way with her externals, but so long as blue grass grows and pennyville has fragrance, what she has been, always that she will be—the state where hospitality is a religion and kindness is a creed; the state that produced an Abe Lincoln and a Jefferson Davis, a Boone and a Breckinridge, an Albert Sidney Johnston and a John H. Morgan, a Shelby and a Clay; the state which may yet produce a President of tomorrow fashioned from the Morrow of today."

GOV. HARDING SAYS WORST IS OVER

(By Associated Press)
Winston Salem, N. C., Jan. 21.—Even pessimists are now convinced the "danger of an old-fashioned panic" is passed, Governor Harding of the Federal Reserve Board, declared today in speaking before the Chamber of Commerce. He said "I think developments of the past 30 days, have convinced even those who were so happy as when there is miserable business generally, that we are safely over the most critical stage of the readjustment period."

Added price declines are necessarily disastrous to producers, who expected price levels of a year ago to be sustained, or even advanced, but so far as the community as a whole is concerned "there is no question of its solvency."

COL. OLDHAM TO DEFEND OWEN WALKER

Col. R. C. Oldham, who has been engaged to defend Owen Walker, the Richmond negro charged with shooting a young white man at the Shakerstown crap game and chicken fight, was over in Harrodsburg Friday with his client. Upon his return here he said that Walker's plea will be a plain case of self defense.

In view of the fact that circuit court meets at Harrodsburg Monday, examining trial will be waived, Col. Oldham says, and the case will be submitted directly to the grand jury there. Col. Oldham says that he expects a trial at the coming term of court.

He declared the statements were "absolutely, unqualifiedly and maliciously false."

He asserted he personally paid his own expenses during his term as director general of the emergency fleet corporation.

YOU CAN LIKE COLD WEATHER

Crisp and Snappy Wintry Air Should Make Your Blood Tingle

YOU SHOULD ENJOY OUT-DOORS

Pepto-Mangan Will Fill Your Blood With Vital Red Corpuscles, Able to Stand Cold Weather

Some people dread cold weather. The least frost in the air shrivels them up. They put on heavy flannels, hug the fires and still feel cold. It is pretty safe to say that people like that have thin, weak blood.

On the other hand you see other people who take on a healthy glow in cold weather. Their blood shows red on their cheeks and the color of their lips is heightened. They step out briskly, breathe in the cold air, and it seems to act like a tonic.

That's what it means to have plenty of rich, healthy blood. The ozone in the cold air touches the good blood in the lungs and puts new vigor in the body. You square your shoulders. The sting of clean, crisp, cold air feels pleasant. You enjoy the cold.

On the other hand, people with bodies that are fed with weak, impoverished blood, lacking in red corpuscles, hate cold air. Their faces and lips seem to turn blue and look pinched. Their eyes look watery. There's no pleasure in winter for them.

So be sure your blood is healthy. Perhaps it needs a lift right now. Pepto-Mangan will tone you blood up to its normal state. Doctors have prescribed it for years because it has the right ingredients to make new blood. Besides, it is easy to take. Comes in tablet or liquid form. Both have the same medicinal value.

Make certain that you get the genuine Pepto-Mangan. Ask for "Gude's," and see that the name, "Gude's Pepto-Mangan," is on the package.—Advertisement.

Healthy Young Womanhood

THE tendency to constipation begins with girls as they approach maturity, and that is the very time the mothers should watch that the important function of daily elimination is regular and normal. Many thousands of mothers who have daughters will tell you they give only Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. A teaspoonful is sufficient to relieve constipation and its common symptoms such as headache, bad breath, biliousness, loss of appetite and restlessness.

Syrup Pepsin is a compound of Egyptian Senna and other simple laxative herbs with peptic and pleasant-tasting aromatics, and a sixty-cent bottle is enough for many months. Eight million bottles were bought at drug stores last year, the largest sale of the kind in the world. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has been on the market thirty years and there must be genuine merit behind it to develop so large and steady a sale. Buy a bottle today and you will quickly see why it is so popular.

Send me your name and address and I will send you a free trial bottle of my Syrup Pepsin. Address me Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 512 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. Everybody now and then needs a laxative, and it is well to know the best. Write me today.

IN THE MOVIES

"Help Yourself" pictures a faddist's paradise and portrays with hilarious comedy the wild wind-up of a frenzied group of excitement seekers who have just "taken up" the latest fad of Washington Square—gentle radicalism. It is idle society toasted on the griddle of satire by one of the wittiest of modern authors, Wallace Lewin. The story mixes up a wild professor, an incipient mule magnate, a pleasure-surfeited matron, a pet alligator, half a dozen frivolous debutantes—and Madge Kennedy. It winds up with the wildest night ever pictured in a screen comedy. Julius Caesar takes prominent part in the story—not the Caesar of history, but the Caesar of the bath-tub—the pet alligator kept by Rosamonde and worshipped by her set as the reincarnation of the soul of the greatest Roman of them all. And there was a very slangy parrot, in whose feathered breast the soul of Cleopatra was fondly believed to lodge. These pets, with a number of other oddly assorted members of the animal kingdom, made bedlam in Aunt Carmen's boudoir. At opera house tonight. FORDSON

The Ford Motor Company has just issued a book called "The Fordson at Work." This book is given free. Call in and get one. If you cannot call, write and we will mail you one without charge. It is not what the Ford Motor Company says about the Fordson Tractor but what the army of users have to say. This book voices the hardest kind of practical experience. It shows in illustration the Fordson Tractor at actual work along some ninety different lines of activity. It shows in these illustrations the wonderful versatility and utility of the Fordson Tractor. Shows it to be, beyond all question, the one bit of machinery that is a necessity, not only on the farm but along many lines of commercial business; especially does it show up the Fordson as a valuable servant on the farm. With it the farmer is relieved of the hard work; because he can take advantage of the weather in preparing his seed bed; he can do it at the right time; the same is true when it comes to harvesting. It solves, to a great extent, the problem of scarcity of labor.

With its wonderful, reliable power, it brings to the farm home all the conveniences, in the way of running water in the house, electric lights, operation of the washing machine, churning, separating the cream from the milk; it assumes and takes to itself the drudgery of farm life both in the field and in the house and it is only a matter of a few years until it will be as universal in its service on the farm as the farmer himself. It will become a part of farm life; a beneficial part; a profitable part. Get order in for there's a rush coming.
